

EPFX-SCIO-QXCI Channels Of Information

Dr W Nelson

Many have asked what is measured by the QXCI medical device. This incredible advancement in medicine measures subtle electrical factors of the body. The history of alternative medicine has been dominated by old style resistance measuring devices. These antique devices depended on the operator to apply the probe to the acupuncture point. By subtly changing the speed of probe delivery (not the pressure), the operator could influence the outcome. This prevented true results. The other complication was the limits of just resistance testing. The body is much more complicated than just resistance. The electrical factors of the body include voltage, amperage, capacitance, inductance, frequency, and many others.

Now don't be afraid. For over fifteen years I've been lecturing to audiences of alternative medicine, and here is where all of a sudden the apprehension and fear start. The mention of voltage, amperage etc seem to trigger fear and dread. For all of a sudden the world of electroacupuncture which before was secure and safe is now dramatically incomplete. Most of these doctors in America and Germany have spent a life time mentally invested into one channel resistance measures of energetic medicine. Now they are faced with the discovery that a new technology has so surpassed their familiarity, that at first it is intimidating. Small minds see new technology as a threat where great spirits see new technology as an opportunity.

So the QXCI represents a new technology. This article is a very brief summary of this technology. Small minds will probably quit reading by now. Let me caution you, if you read further your life as a doctor will change and your mind might have to expand.

The basics of bio-electrical medicine lie in the voltage, amperage, and resistance. The only thing that can truly be measured in electricity is the voltage and amperage. Everything else is a mathematical variation of voltage and amperage. So the QXCI device starts by measuring multiple channels of this information. Multiple channels are needed so that we can see variations in the electrical potential and flow of the body total. So we measure the extremities and the head. This direct measurement is of four channels of voltage, four of amperage, and four of resistance. These come into the computer for amplification and the computer acts as a frequency counter for receiving this data. This makes an active twelve channel measuring device.

Other calculations are made mathematically. Resistance can not be measured directly. It must be calculated from an amperage or voltage meter. Same as that any capacitance meter can not directly measure capacitance it must do a mathematical adjustment of voltage and amperage flow. These calculations are referred to as virtual or mathematical measures. So even the one channel resistance devices of the antique electroacupuncture devices such as listen (best), voll, phasix, bicom, mora and a host of others are virtual measures.

The QXCI device measures over forty virtual dimensions. The variations of amperage and voltage flow give us a way to measure capacitance and inductance. These are the reflections of static and magnetic effects of bio-electricity. Variations in amperage and voltage allow us to measure frequency. You can not measure a frequency with a resistance meter. So frequency was left out of the one channel resistance systems of old.

Changes in the voltage, amperage, and resistance together make up the reactance and susceptance of the electrical system. This is the most important measure of medication testing. Resistance alone is helpful but when coupled with voltage and amperage the medication testing is greatly improved. True complete electrical reactance is the best measure of biological reactance. But multiple channels are needed to measure total reactivity.

From these calculations several other ramifications can be surmised. The bioresonance of the system can be measured. The reaction of the body to nosodes, isodes, allersodes, sarcodes, classic homeopathics, herbals, minerals, amino acids, enzymes, hormones, bacteria, fungus, parasites, nerves, vertribrae, muscles, and thousands of other compounds. The resonance of the system is measured by determining the evoked potential or reaction of the body to these compounds.

Evoked potential is the electrical reaction of a patient to a stimulus. By analyzing the patients evoked potential or change in the above 52 measures we can see the patterns of the energetic body of the patient.

The speed of this reaction is rather quick. The body electric is drawn towards nutrition and repelled from toxins. This is discussed in detail in the Promorpheus.

The speed of reactivity is controlled by the speed of ionic exchange, this is the speed of change in metabolic reaction. This speed is approximately one hundredth of a second. The QXCI device is calibrated for each individual patient.

To measure the 52 factors at biological speeds of one hundredths of a second, will take a computer. Computer can perform 400 million calculations a sec. So a computer can easily perform the calculations of or energetic medicine. In just one test over 65 million bits of data are attained from our patient. The sophistication of this data and the nature of this fractal and chaos system, makes it imperative to use a nonlinear system of analysis. We use a fuzzy number mathematic system of Fourier form fit as a basis of analysis. Other system of numerical analysis is used when needed. The computer can detect energetic aberrations and repair them automatically. This is like a rectifying circuit in your television. The QXCI device is a new technology for energetic medicine.

The added benefit is that now the system will perform without conscious intervention. The users of the antique resistance probe devices can alter the speed of probe pressure slightly and effect the reading. The doctor and the patient will not be able to exert conscious influence over the results, because the QXCI system will not notify what is being tested.

The QXCI system can also perform intricate therapies, such as , electroacupuncture, rife,(mora + bicom like) bioresonance, scalar, color therapy, NLP, etc. The cybernetic link of therapy and diagnosis makes this the QXCI the truly complete energetic medical system of the future.

This new dramatic jump in technology may seem threatening to some. It might be like a person one hundred years ago seeing a computer or a television. It might be hard to believe, but let me assure you this new technology is real and here to stay. Competitors have cultivated many rumors and lies about the device but we hope that the intelligent doctor and therapist will investigate for themselves. The QXCI device is not a random number generator.

Now if you have read this far the next step is to schedule for a demonstration. You have now set foot on a new path of energetic medicine. If you have questions on your journey please send them to us on the net.
